REASON FOR DESIGNATION

Architectural Design or Physical Value:

Decorative bargeboard which is frequently present on Gothic revival homes from this period adds to the home's façade.

Historical Significance:

Originally constructed in 1875, the home is of contextual and historical value given it being a fine example of early Lindsay buildings. The home's features are influenced from the Ontario Gothic Revival style of architecture. The home exemplifies 19th century architecture and contributes to the history of Lindsay and Elgin Street streetscape where a variety of homes featuring numerous styles and eras are visible. Owners of the home were likely farmers, dating as far back as 1896-1906 Miss Catherine Naylor was in charge of selling or renting a farm. Her husband was Mr. John Naylor.
